

Curriculum Based Research Form

We know that many of you have students conduct research as a part of their class requirements. Please assist them in learning about ethical principles and regulations governing research on human subjects.

- By regulation and according to ethical principles, research protocols are to be completed and approved for each research activity. However, curriculum-based research under the direction of a faculty member has a more liberal “approval” process.
- Faculty need only complete the information below and submit this form to the research office.
- Please complete separate forms for each course/section per semester. The Research Office will review these forms and they will be kept on file in the Research Office. Contact the institutional researcher if you have questions.

Thank You

As part of my regularly-assigned classroom projects, students enrolled in the above-named course will be conducting research with human subjects. I (or a knowledgeable guest speaker) will review policies and procedures related to such research, specifically those which guide subjects’ rights to confidentiality and disclosure, with my students. I will supervise all research by the students in accordance with the policies established by the Mt. San Jacinto College Research Committee. I also agree to have my students follow the ethical guidelines established by AIR, APA, and AERA, as well as all policies and regulations related to confidentiality of records and information.
